Sub: Call for Internship for the Month of April on Tribal Rights Research Project

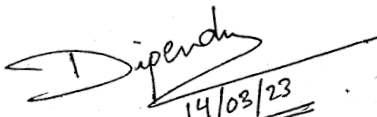

Indian Centre for Child and Human Rights (ICCHR) is pleased to announce the Call for Internship for the Month of April. We invite applications from interested students for legal research and writer roles for our upcoming research project on Tribal Rights, “Fading Rights and Deepening Interests: A contradiction between Tribal Rights and Cost of Development.”

The research project is under the supervision of UNICEF India and United Nations Academic Impact (UNAI) and was announced on 9th August 2022. The project aims to investigate the challenges faced by tribal communities across India and the contradiction between tribal rights and the cost of development. The research report will provide recommendations and a detailed analysis of various researches for Central and State Governments and institutions to work on.

We are looking for 25 interns who are passionate about Human and Tribal Rights in India and are willing to contribute to this research project. The selected interns will have the opportunity to work and learn under the guidance of experienced professionals, and gain hands-on experience in the field of legal research and writing.

Interested candidates may apply through the following link <https://bit.ly/icchrinternship>, on or before 25th March, 2023. We encourage all eligible students to apply and look forward to receiving your applications.
