Sub: Launch of ICCHR Blog: National Blog for Child and Human Rights

We are pleased to announce the launch of the Indian Centre for Child and Human Rights (ICCHR) Blog. The blog is established as part of ICCHR's mission to promote research and facilitate a better understanding of child and human rights.

As a part of ICCHR, we work towards providing a multidisciplinary perspective on contemporary issues concerning child and human rights of national and international importance. The blog serves as a platform for sharing information and creating awareness about the current issues affecting children and human rights in India and globally.

The blog aims to highlight the challenges and opportunities in promoting and protecting these rights and provide readers with a deeper understanding of the issues. We encourage contributions from experts, scholars, activists, and individuals who wish to share their perspectives and experiences related to child and human rights. We also provide a platform for students and researchers to showcase their research and findings related to the field.

The ICCHR National Blog serves as a platform for fostering dialogue and promoting critical thinking around child and human rights issues. We aim to engage a wider audience in our mission to promote and protect the rights of children and human beings.

We invite all interested parties to visit our blog and participate in this important conversation. The blog is open to contributions from experts, scholars, activists, and individuals who wish to share their perspectives and experiences related to child and human rights. It also encourages students and researchers to write about their research and findings related to the field.
